Property maintenance ordinance causes contention for council

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis officials called for more study Tuesday on a proposed ordinance that one council member blasted as "bureaucracy bordering on dictatorship."

But the proposed property maintenance ordinance wasn't the only topic causing contention at City Council meetings Monday and Tuesday nights.

Faced with whopping expenses in a comprehensive drainage improvement program, Bay St. Louis City Council members tangled over ways to pinch pennies elsewhere in their budget.

Heated discussion developed around an International

Property Maintenance Code which city building inspector Bill Carragee is recommending be adopted. Carragee gave council members copies of the proposed code months ago, but it hadn't been discussed in any detail until Tuesday night.

At-large council member James Rutherford said he stands "totally opposed" to the code which, he added, "verges on dictatorship."

"We're not a private community...Why the hell do we need more ordinances, more paperwork?" Rutherford asked.

He said the code would increase the cost of housing, substantially increase the number

DMR approves funds for piers

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County supervisors have gotten some extra help to repair the Washington Street and Dunbar Avenue fishing piers.

At their meeting Monday, supervisors learned the state Department of Marine Resources has approved the county's application for federal Wallop-Breaux funds, which are distributed through the state Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

District Supervisors Steve Seymour and Lisa Cowand had asked Jeff Loftus, the county's consultant with the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, to apply for the funds following high tides and winds last February before Hurricane Georges. The freak storm heavily damaged both fishing piers, in addition to many private piers stretching from Cedar Point in Bay St. Louis all the way to Waveland and Bayou Caddy.

Supervisors had planned to use some Tidelands or Seawall funds to repair the damaged piers, but will now get federal funds in the amount of $136,250 to help restore the fishing spots.

That's not enough to cover the estimated cost of repairs, but it will prevent supervisors from having to dip further into Tidelands funding, which has been cut next year to $189,197.

Supervisors had already hired the Gulfport architectural firm of Brown and Mitchell to prepare estimates on the Dunbar fishing pier, and opened bids in August.

On Monday, they voted to award the repair contract to the firm of Tony Parnell of Vancleave. The firm submitted the apparent low bid of $121,373. That means that supervisors still might have to

Judge throws out embezzlement charges

BY ED LEPOMA

A county judge has thrown out charges of embezzlement against the woman who runs the Diamondhead contract postal station.

Justice Court Clerk Liz Smith confirmed Tuesday that Judge Joe Dobson ruled Oct. 16 that there was "insufficient evidence" to try Theresa Ann Hiler on charges lodged in a warrant signed against her Sept. 6.

Hiler, took over operations of the Diamondhead contract station near the end of May. She had been managing a dry cleaners and laundromat located next door, and the owner of that business swore out a warrant for her arrest on Sept. 16. The owner charged Hiler with embezzling $65,000 over a period of years. She was arrested, then released under a $25,000 bond.

Hiler continued running the postal station while awaiting trial on the charge.

Smith said it was up to Sheriff's Department Criminal Investigator Matt Karl to decide whether he will take the charges before a Hancock County Grand Jury.

Main Street Methodist celebrates Children's Sabbath

The seventh annual National Observance of Children's Sabbath will be Sunday, Nov. 8 during the 11 a.m. worship service at Main Street United Methodist Church, 162 Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

"We are the Church," this year's theme, will focus on the strength of the thousands of congregations around the state of Mississippi and the nation who are trying to address the needs of children in the community through nurture, outreach, witness and prayer.

The Children's Sabbath is a time to make a difference in a child's life. This year's observance will feature the children and youths of Main Street in a variety of skits, prayers and a puppet show performed by the children's choir, "God's Singing Stars."

Main Street will highlight the need of children in the local community by sponsoring a special offering during the service to benefit Hope Haven, a center for abused and neglected children in Hancock County.

Hope Haven is one of 96 shelters in Mississippi and the only shelter not fully funded by the local government or a large religious organization. Hope Haven is a most efficiently run shelter. This is accomplished through donations of cash, food and supplies from local businesses and citizens.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Saturday will be the annual Bay St. Louis Rotary Club's Spaghetti Dinner benefit.

Janet McQueen is the over-all chairman of the dinner, which will take place at Christ Episcopal's Virginia Hall, 912 S. Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

The hours of serving will be from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. with take-outs available.

The meal will include meatballs, homemade tomato sauce, spaghetti, bread, dessert and tea for a donation of $6 per person.

Bay Rotarians will begin preparations of the meal on Friday, putting the finishing touches on Saturday afternoon.

Proceeds will be used by Rotarians for their many community projects, most of them involving the youth of the area.

McQueen said this is the club's only major fund raiser of the year, and it is hoped there will be a big community support.

Tickets will be available at the door or from Bay Rotary members.

I hope to see you at the Spaghetti Dinner on Saturday evening.

The regular high school football season comes to an end for 1998 Friday night with all area teams seeing action.

The headline game will be in Rock-A-Chaw Stadium when St. Stanislaus plays host to the Bay High Tigers.

The game between Bay High and Stanislaus is always a popular attraction and ends up being a standing-room-only event for spectators.

An added spice this year is the fact that both Stanislaus and Bay High have the best combined records going against each other in many years.

In last week's action, Stanislaus crushed Picayune's Maroon Tide 35-16 to gain a spot in the Division 7 4-A playoff, while the Tigers of Bay High edged longtime foe Hancock High 19-13 for the first time in many years.

Both the Rock-A-Chaws and Tigers have really improved their play as this season progressed.

This should be the game of the season.

Hancock High has a mighty task this week as they meet conference leader Columbia in Columbia.

The Hawks will need a miracle to pull out a victory over Columbia.

The Pirates of Pass Christian close the season Friday night playing host to Forrest County.

The Pirates could possibly, with some good luck and super play, edge Forrest to add another victory to their season.

The Tigers, Rocks, Hawks and Pirates all need good fan support Friday night, and we hope to see you in the stands.

Remember, if you want a seat, I suggest you get to the Rock-A-Chaw Stadium early. Kickoffs are at 7:30 p.m. Best of luck to the Hawks, Tigers, Rocks and Pirates.

I received several telephone calls on Tuesday about the primary elections held in Waveland.

The callers all said they thought the way a person voted was that person privilege, and no one needed to know how they voted.

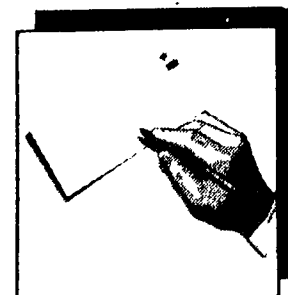

This being a primary election meant that when qualified electors went to the voting precinct, they had to commit themselves by either going to the Democratic or Republican voting area.

If someone saw a voter going into the Republican or Democratic area they knew for whom they voted and felt this was not correct.

This has been the procedure for as long as I can remember. Of course this was not a problem when I first started voting in Hancock County some 45 plus years ago, because there was only one party in the state.

With two active parties it does make a difference, but I do not have the answer if we use the primary election procedure to elect our officials.

I know I will receive some objections, but I still feel we have the best system for a state with two strong parties.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader says Bay-Waveland should ban burning completely

To the Editor:

Why, why, why does Bay St. Louis and Waveland allow people to burn things?

The fires cause big clouds of smoke and cinders to fly over people's homes.

It also causes people with health problems to choke. Don't we pay to have garbage people to pick up everything?

Many beautiful new homes are being built in the Waveland area, Margie Street, Rue de la Salle, others, but every day fires are burning.

My husband and I decided that if someone burns down our home, they will have to build us a new one or give us their home.

Please, pass a law now. No more burning!

Thank you,

Profile of Mississippi veterans

There are approximately 223,800 veterans living in Mississippi today and they comprise about 36 percent of the population. The median age for Mississippi veterans is 58.

There are less than 50 World War I veterans with an average age of 96. There are 58,200 World War II veterans with an average age of 75, and 33,100 Korean veterans with an average age of 66. There are 60,300 Vietnam veterans with an average age of 40, and 23,900 Persian Gulf veterans with an average age of 47.

The VA estimates that for every living veteran there are 2.5 persons (family members or survivors) who are potentially entitled to some VA benefits.

Therefore, there are approximately 783,300 individuals potentially entitled to VA benefits based on military service of living veterans alone. This, of course, does not include those survivors receiving benefits from deceased veterans.

Mississippi deaths in service

Civil war 27,500; World War I 704; World War II 4,187; Vietnam 638; and Persian Gulf 5.

Depleted Uranium Study

Depleted uranium, a substance contained in some of the rounds fired by U.S. troops during the Persian Gulf War, has been suspected of causing some of the unexplained ailments affecting some veterans of that war.

However, in a recently released report, the Pentagon's top advisor on Gulf War illness said the available evidence does not support claims that depleted uranium caused, or is causing, the undiagnosed illnesses some Gulf War veterans are experiencing.

Depleted uranium is a very dense material used as a core in artillery rounds designed to pierce armored vehicles. When the armaments are intact, the depleted uranium is relatively safe. However, when the rounds hit a target, a portion of the heavy metal is oxidized, releasing particles into the air. The particles can be toxic if inhaled.

The Pentagon plans to contact several hundred soldiers who might have come into contact with vehicles truck with rounds containing depleted uranium and urge them to seek medical examinations.

Some veterans' advocates found fault with the report, saying it contradicted results found by the VA. Some say that the Pentagon should be looking at the long-term effects of the uranium exposure and related health hazards, such as cancer.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Moore becomes candidate for governor to beat

JACKSON—Mike Moore has just changed the entire dynamic of Mississippi's 1999 gubernatorial race by removing months of doubts whether or not he would enter the race. Now he automatically becomes the guy to beat.

His announcement last week that he will run was not really an announcement at all, and not the way he wanted to do it. Having made up his mind over the weekend to go for the gubernatorial brass ring, he confided it to a few close friends, then let his Attorney General's staff know.

No public announcement was to be made yet. But that night it was leaked (not by him) to a TV newscaster, and the story was off to the races.

Prematurely or not, it probably was best for Moore that his decision to run got out in the public right away to clear the air of doubt about his intentions two months before the end of the year, the very latest time he could jump into the 1999 race.

But it did deprive Moore of giving Lt. Gov. Ronnie Musgrove, his apparent chief foe for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, ample advance notice and a chance to open communications toward avoiding the two going head-to-head for the same prize. Of course, Musgrove has been hard at work for months lining up support and building a war chest to seek the top job.

A Moore-Musgrove race would be a classic battle in Mississippi politics between two top state elected officials, but it could be suicidal for the already-ailing state Democratic Party. Naturally, Mississippi Republicans would like nothing better than two top Democrats going at each other in a dog-fight.

I can see a scenario like this unfolding: Moore and Musgrove holding a summit meeting next month, and out of it, Moore will become the lone Democratic gubernatorial candidate, with Musgrove settling for his present slot. But with it, a promise from Moore that he would serve only one term, if elected.

Traditionally for many years in Mississippi's political system, "my turn" existed in the hierarchy of state elected officials. The one who had served longest and waited his turn for a crack at governor would get it, and the others would then stand aside. Perhaps it will again come into play, and Moore, senior over Musgrove, will get his turn first.

A Moore-Musgrove Democratic ticket would be a powerful one-two punch, if it happens.

Immediately, however, Musgrove will have a tough choice to make on whether or not to continue his pursuit for governor. Despite the fact that for months he has been alone in the field, built a formidable organization and collected a big slug of financial commitments, he can read the poll numbers which put Moore way out ahead of everybody.

Still, by jumping in at this late date, Moore has a whole lot of catching up to do to catch up in money raising and getting commitments from some of the same people already committed to Musgrove. So far, Musgrove doesn't buy the deal.

The way-haired, boyish-faced Moore, whose looks are said to have strong appeal to women's maternal instincts, would be a top contender for governor even if he hadn't brought into state coffers $4 billion (and counting) for health restitution from Big Tobacco. That was truly a David vs. Goliath story, which has impressed even the most cynical Mississippians and gotten him millions of dollars in TV exposure.

Since he was first elected the state's Attorney General 12 years ago, Moore has been a governmental activist to reform worn-out systems and tackle untouched problems like the state has never seen before. But is Mississippi ready for an activist governor, something they seem to have shied away from in the past?

When Moore finally let the word out last week he had decided to go for governor, many, of course, said they never had any real doubt he would. But that's not so.

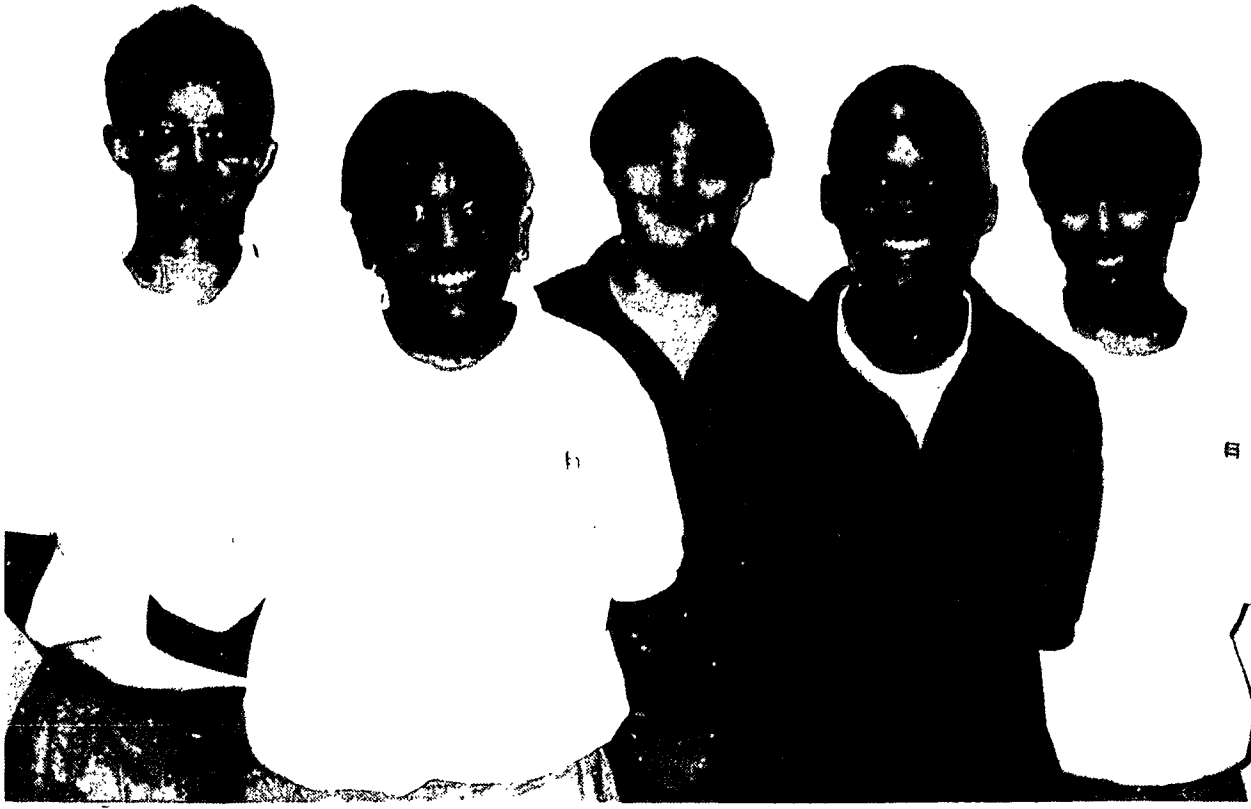

He only decided after finally resolving in his own heart and conscience concerns of how a tough campaign and being governor would affect his 12-year-old son, Kyle, and his wife, Tisha, a shy person not given to being in the political limelight.

Few perhaps believe that Moore, who has been in the political arena for years, could feel so deeply and long agonize about the possible impact on his family before making a decision about his political career. But he did.

WWII exhibit opens Veterans Day at Depot

Bay St. Louis will host a World War II military memorabilia exhibit at the historic Depot beginning Nov. 11. The exhibit features the member collections of the Gulf South Military Collectible Club. This group of military history enthusiasts formed their organization in 1996.

A reception for veterans of all wars and all services is scheduled from 7-9 p.m.

The exhibit will be open for student review by appointment on Thursday and Friday. Each Bay St. Louis school has been invited to have their sixth, eighth and 10th grade students attend. There are eight available slots that will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

The exhibit will be open to the public Saturday, Nov. 14 from 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

A special USO-style dance, hosted by the city, has been set at 7 p.m. on the grounds of the Depot, featuring a Red Cross canteen serving coffee, hot chocolate and donuts.

Highlights of the exhibit include live models and mannequins that showcase the uniforms of all the services, complete with field gear for many of the uniforms. Weapons, handbooks, field rations, and other supply memorabilia will be presented.

All events are free to the public, but donations will be accepted to help defray transportation and security expenses for the exhibit.

"We are so excited to have this opportunity to showcase World War II during the countdown to our Tercentennial," said Mayor Eddie Favre.

The exhibit is presented by the Department of Administration, Division of Cultural Affairs, Robert J. Parker, director.

Agency finds charities report to be inaccurate

BY B. R. HAWKINS

A report detailing the performance of Mississippi charitable organizations recently issued by Secretary of State Eric Clark has shocked area agency directors.

"Like several other Coast charities, Hope Haven got caught in the paperwork grinder," said Hope Haven Director Terry Latham. "The percentages listed for us, based on information we submitted, were inaccurate."

Latham claims the problem stems from the agencies being unfamiliar with paperwork and simple errors involving which figure went under which category. "The discrepancies will be corrected ASAP," Latham said. Latham said Hope Haven, like the Hancock County Food Pantry, which also reported inaccuracies in the report, spend its money almost totally on program services.

"We do have a few small items which do not fit under the program service area, such as postage, printing and professional services," Latham said.

The biggest expense which Hope Haven cannot list under program services, explained Latham, is the expense involved in fund raising activities.

"This includes the fund it takes to put on our annual extravaganza and concerts in the park," he said. "Even though all the money derived from those kinds of events end up going to the shelter, the reporting system, used in the report, did not allow a category for expenses such as these."

Latham admits that Hope Haven reported some items in the wrong categories which affected the report, but he hopes that the confusion will not affect public support of Hope Haven.

"I hope that this will not affect support of our services that as desperately needed by hundreds of abused and neglected children in south Mississippi," Latham said, "As I tell anyone, our books are open, and any fifth grader can look at them and see that our money is spent on the children we serve."

Fire safety

Students of Ann Edwards' kindergarten class at North Bay Elementary enjoyed a visit from firemen of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department. The program was part of Fire Safety Week. Students had a chance to see a fireman dressed in the gear used to enter a burning building. The firemen want children to know that they should not be afraid and hide if their house is on fire and someone comes in dressed in the somewhat scare-looking suit.

Diamondhead Baptist begin Anna Love memory project

The Team Kid Program at Diamondhead Baptist Church is sponsoring the building of a nature trail in memory of Team Kid, Anna Love, Saturday, Nov. 7, church members and Team Kids invite the public to join them at 10 a.m. for prayer and a day of work clearing the lot adjacent to the preschool playground.

The finished project will consist of a walking path, prayer garden, labeled native trees and flowers and a flower garden. There is a diagram and artist's rendition of the completed project.

"People who knew Anna carry warm memories of her and wish to have their memories live on. The completed project will provide a place to meditate, pray and enjoy the beauty of God's work, said Jacqueline Schorr, spokesman. "Anna was a very important member of the Team Kid Club and was good about bringing her friends to church," she said.

"We all miss her very much and want people who will come later to our church and community to know just how very special Anna Caroline Love was," said Schorr. "Please invite your friends to participate and join us in our first work day at the nature trail."

The children will remove brush and plant a flower garden. Adults need to bring refreshments, garden gloves, saws and axes, yard rakes, hoes, shovels, native plants, paving stones, park bench, arched trellis and good ideas. We will enjoy a picnic lunch around noon (bring your own lunch).

The timing is perfect for planting trees, shrubs and spring bulbs. Ideas for tree and shrub donations are: Coast Leucothoe and evergreen shrubs, Dwarf Magnolia (Little Gem), and native azaleas. Plants that are shade tolerant will grow best in the area designated for the Anna Love Memorial Nature Trail Team Kid Project.

Council — Ordinances cause contention of complaints the city receives from citizens, and possibly promote feuding amongst neighbors. "This is not what this community needs. All we're doing is building bureaucracy on bureaucracy," Rutherford said.

Carrigee, however, told council that most of the provisions in the new code already exist in the city's building ordinances. What's needed, he said, are the proposed code's easier provisions for enforcement of the requirements.

Carrigee said building code violations pile up in the court system, often stagnating for years in a pending, or continued, case situation.

"This gives me a better enforcement avenue," Carrigee said of the proposed code. "I'm spinning my wheels, chasing my tail" in current enforcement efforts, he said.

Rutherford wasn't the only council member expressing concern about the code's provisions. Ward 4 council member Tad Black made several references to the proposed code's requirements for 60-watt light bulbs, and windows to vent bathrooms. "You're not going into somebody's house to see if they've got a 60 watt bulb," Black said to Carrigee.

"I have no intention to go around and aggravate people," Carrigee responded. But, he added, when code violations become serious, the proposed maintenance ordinance gives his department much better enforcement options.

Carrigee said the light bulb requirement and bathroom ventilation regulation already are in the city's building code. He offered to go through the proposed ordinance in detail, if council would give it further consideration.

Council agreed to a Nov. 16 workshop on the matter, at 6 p.m.

In an unrelated matter during council's Monday night workshop, Ward 1 council member Carleen Moran suggested that city merchants pick up at least part of the $7,000 annual tab for renting a hospitality center in the first block of Main Street.

Moran said the facility is "a lovely amenity," but "truly a luxury item" in a year so lean that city employees didn't get raises.

Ward 2 council member James Thriffiley, however, said the hospitality center is "a tremendous asset" to the city, and is significant for its possibilities as much as for its current usage.

He even suggested the city buy the building rather than lease it. "The reason we aren't giving raises is because we spent so much money on casements," Thriffiley said, referring to the city's comprehensive, on-going drainage improvement program.

Thriffiley said Moran has complained about the hospitality center's expense since she was first elected in 1996. "I don't understand how $7,000 can dominate anybody's mind," Thriffiley said to Moran. "I don't understand how $7,000 can drive a nail through your heart."

Moran said she's been trying to think of a number of ways the city could save money and is concerned that the center is "empty and vacant" almost 40 percent of the time. The same goes for the depot, said Moran.

The two council members agreed on one potential cost-cutting area: the money council appropriates for "advertising." Council routinely responds to requests from churches, organizations and schools to buy ads in programs and various publications. The appropriations can range from a few dollars to several hundred.

Black said council is in agreement those appropriations should be stopped.

Meanwhile, Thriffiley had asked city staff several weeks ago to detail outlays for the city's drainage improvement program, prompting a new cash flow report recently given to council members.

The report shows that a $5.5 million general obligation bond issue has earned almost $350,000 in interest since August 1, 1996. Expenses include $242,000 in casements. Engineering costs for three segments of the project are shown at $452,000. And the bond issue has paid out a total of $538,000 in engineering fees when other related projects are considered.

Construction contract costs covered by the issue so far amount to almost $2.4 million. With legal expenses at almost $66,000 the fund had $2.2 million left as of September 30, 1998, the report shows.

The city recently awarded a $2.7 million contract for the second phase of drainage improvement construction, and a third segment has yet to be put out for bids.

City officials plan to pay for the remainder of drainage upgrade costs in a variety of ways, including tapping the proceeds of a revenue bond issue which was originally intended to finance other improvements to utility system facilities.

In addition, the newly passed city budget draws on $1 million in surplus cash to help finance the drainage improvement program.

Cleanup — Agencies continue

ing and Equipment Company of Magnolia, reported the cleanup in both cities was about 70 percent complete. Supervisors approved partial payment of $25,095 for the Waveland portion of the cleanup and another $30,093 for the work in Bay St. Louis.

Mayors of both cities have alerted citizens that the contractor intends to make a second and final sweep on Monday, Nov. 9, and have requested citizens to put the remainder of their debris alongside the roadways.

In an effort to cut down on the second collection, the burn ban has also been lifted in both cities. However, residents who want to burn are being asked to limit the size of their trash piles to a height of four feet and a width of six feet.

The cleanup has not gone as smoothly in rural portions of Hancock County, supervisors learned. Under terms of the various contracts let, the contractors have until Nov. 25 to make the final cleanup of rural streets.

The only contractor approved for partial payment was Santa Rosa Construction of Picayune, which was awarded an $18,000 contract for cleaning that area of the county north of I-10 and east of Hwy. 603.

Board President Philip Moran, District Supervisors Rocky

Pullman, Jeep Ladner and Steve Seymour complained that contractors are behind schedule in cleanups in their districts. County Administrator Tim Kellar, who lives in the Flat Top Community, also said there are still piles of tree limbs and leaves piled alongside many roadsides in that community.

Santa Rosa Construction is also in charge of the cleanup of the area lying north of I-10 and Hwy. 603, and JESCO Construction Co. of Gulfport is responsible for cleaning up all county roads from Interstate 10 south to the corporate limits. C.W. Parker & Associates of Waveland is cleaning up Diamondhead.

None of those firms requested partial payment, but county Road Supt. Tommy Moran was asked to closely monitor and speed up those cleanups.

The debris, estimated to be around 1.5 million tons countywide, is being taken to four dump sites throughout Hancock County and burned.

come up with $52,875 to complete the project, but they remain hopeful that the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA) or some other form of federal or state aid may become available to help repair both piers, since further damage occurred during Hurricane Georges.

Supervisors also voted to hire Brown and Mitchell to submit estimates on restoring the Washington Street pier.

Meanwhile, the Washington Street boat launch remains closed in anticipation of the startup of a contract already let to remove one jetty, add another, and repair the boat launch and access ramp at the foot of Washington Street. JESCO Construction Company of Gulfport has been awarded a contract for $142,066 for the improvements, but work has not yet begun.

JESCO's project manager Jim Stockstill said the project has been delayed because he can't get trucks to haul in the rip rap for the new jetty.

Stockstill said most area haulers are involved in the coastwide cleanup of debris from Hurricane Georges.

"But, I'm hopeful, we can start in a week or two," said Stockstill. He said once the work begins, the improvements should be completed within two weeks.

and a lot of people lost their homes," said Fisher. "The people are really in need."

Santiago has begun collecting donated items which will be shipped to the Red Cross in Honduras. Among the items needed are non-perishable food, adult and children's clothing, baby formula, and diapers.

Once the collecting is completed, Santiago said the National Guard has volunteered to pick up the boxes and bring them to Dolc Pineapple in Gulfport which will furnish a container and ship the donations to Honduras.

The response has been positive so far.

St. Ann Church on Lower Bay Road is also collecting items, and Santiago is trying to arrange a food drive at Gulfview School.

With an understanding of what kind of destruction a hurricane can bring, Santiago said he believes the people of Hancock County will open their hearts to the victims in Honduras.

"One person can't do it alone," he said. "The Lord knows what he's doing. Everything I've done so far is falling into place."

Donations can be dropped off at the Waveland Manor Apartments, Apartment 14.

Animal legislation workshop scheduled for Picayune

In Defense of Animals (IDA), a national animal protection group with two offices in Mississippi, is hosting a second animal legislation workshop.

"The first workshop, held on the Gulf Coast, was such a success, that we have been invited by the Pearl River County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to host a meeting in Picayune," said Mary Hoffman, field representative for IDA.

Purpose of the meeting is to invite the public to become involved in working for the passage of stronger laws to protect animals in Mississippi.

"Last year, valuable legislation that would have better protected animals, died in Committee in the Senate and House of Representatives," said Doll Stanley-Branscum, Mid-south coordinator for IDA.

"Those who are concerned for the welfare of animals need to let their legislators know that they favor better protection for animals and higher penalties for those convicted of cruelty to animals," said Maria Diamond, president of the Pearl River County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The meeting will be in the Picayune Crosby Library, Goodyear Boulevard (next to the Picayune Junior High School), 6 p.m. today, Thursday, Nov. 5. The public is invited.

MEC presents JASON activities for teachers

Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium staff will launch the 1999 JASON season with a workshop for teachers, 8 a.m.-2 p.m. Nov. 14 at the marine education center in Biloxi.

The workshop in November and a second workshop Feb. 6 will prepare teachers to lead their students in experiencing the live, interactive broadcasts of JASON Project X — A Wet and Wild Adventure.

Willie Heard, JASON coordinator, said the 1999 edition of JASON will be broadcast March 1-12 at the J. L. Scott. It will feature research in action in the tropical Amazon rainforest in Peru, exploration of the temperate rainforest in Washington State Olympic National Park and a trip back in time as scientists excavate an ancient fossil rainforest site in Castle Rock, Colo.

The workshop registration fee of $20 includes hands-on activities, a copy of the JASON X curriculum, a videotape preview of JASON and a box lunch.

For an additional $10 fee, teachers may earn one-half continuing education units through the University of Southern Mississippi.

"Hands-on activities include a look at common medicines from the rainforest, ecology of the different rainforests, freshwater fish and reptiles and much more," Heard said.

To register, contact Rebecca Perry at 228-374-5550.

Keep Mississippi Beautiful joins national campaign

During the five weeks between Thanksgiving and New Year's it is estimated that the nation's trash increases by an extra one million tons per week.

On Nov. 19, Keep Mississippi Beautiful/People Against Litter joins the ULS Report, Keep America Beautiful, the Environmental Protection Agency and over 250 diverse groups nationwide to celebrate the fourth annual ULS (Use Less Stuff) Day and to show how we can have a great holiday season without everything going to waste.

Nov. 19, the Thursday before Thanksgiving, is significant because it marks the beginning of the high-waste holiday season.

The primary goal of ULS Day is to establish the principle of reducing waste in the first place as a prerequisite to recycling.

"There are many simple and painless ways to cut down on the amount of holiday waste we create without cutting back on holiday fun," says ULS Report editor Robert Lillienfeld.

"You may be surprised to know that you don't have to cut corners or cut back on holiday entertaining and gift-giving to cut waste, cut costs and make a difference."

In honor of ULS Day, the ULS Report will issue a challenging checklist, "42 Ways to Check Your Holiday Wasteline," a free guide full of facts and tips on how to celebrate the holidays while still using less stuff.

For a free copy, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to The ULS Report, P.O. Box 130116, Ann Arbor, MI 48113. Or, to save paper, access it via the Internet at:

Magic provides transportation

Casino Magic Bay St. Louis recently donated a Ford F-350 15-passenger van to the Shifalo Baptist Church in Kiln. Church member Joe Bermond, left, and Deacon John Capplinger; and back, church member Micha Necaise, were on hand to pick up the van at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis. The van is more than just a means of transportation, it is a convenience for congregation members who otherwise may not have a way to get to church. The Rev. Stan Proctor said the gift is greatly appreciated and that the van will be used for any official church business, such as picking up children for Sunday School, youth trips and senior trips.

Model portfolio takes top honors

According to the Wall Street Journal's most recent stock-picking survey, Edward Jones' recommended stock portfolio returned 12.3 percent for the year ending Sept. 30, topping the S&P's return of 9 percent.

Not only did Edward Jones rank No. 1 for the trailing 12 months, the firm also ranked No. 1 for the quarter announced Craig Foster, the local Edward Jones investment representative.

"Our ranking No. 1 in the survey is a true testament to our buy-and-hold philosophy," said Foster. "The market has experienced significant volatility over the past several months, and the investors who have weathered the storm with the blue chips have fared well."

The Journal conducts the survey each quarter to show investors how well they would have fared if they selected the stocks in the model portfolios of 15 major brokerage firms. The Journal then compares the results of each model portfolio to the S&P 500.

In addition to tracking the performance of the individual model portfolios, the survey also tracks the turnover rate within each portfolio to determine how often stocks within the portfolio are sold.

The Edward Jones' model portfolio had zero turnover during the past quarter, the lowest of the 15 brokerage firms surveyed.

Foster said, "At Edward Jones we remind our investors again and again that it's time in the market, not timing the market, that is critical to investment success. Our zero turnover rate coupled with our recommended portfolio's performance over the past year reinforces the importance of buying quality investments and holding them for the long term."

Dave Otto, director of Edward Jones' Research Department, the group that compiles Jones' recommended stock list, pointed out, "Rather than trying to pick record-setting stocks, we look for quality companies that offer attractive growth that will do well over the long term. After all, most investors invest for their long-term future."

Edward Jones traces its roots to 1871. Today, the St. Louis-based firm has more than 4,000 offices in all 50 states. This makes it the nation's largest financial-services firm in terms of offices. In addition, the firm has affiliates in both Canada and the United Kingdom. Together, these companies serve more than 3 million individual investors.

Edward Jones investment representatives serve investors in both rural communities and metropolitan areas. They offer a variety of investments, including certificates of deposit, taxable and tax-free bonds, stocks, mutual funds and retirement-planning services.

Bay St. Louis fast pitch fields two teams for Disney Little League Extravaganza

BY B. R. HAWKINS

Bay St. Louis Little League Girls Fast Pitch Softball teams are in the process of raising funds to send two teams to the annual Little League Extravaganza at Disney's Wide World of Sports Complex in Orlando, Fla., Dec. 27-30.

League president Wade Koenenn said his commissioners, parents and team members raised approximately $2,000 last weekend with a car wash and can shake.

"We are looking to raise at least $20,000 in total before Christmas," Koenenn said. "We have a number of activities planned and are looking for companies or businesses who are willing to sponsor portions of the trip."

The two teams involve 30 girls ages 13 to 16. Fund raising activities over the next three weeks, according to Koenenn, includes another car wash and can shake Saturday, Nov. 7, a raffle ticket sale Saturday, Nov. 14, and a car wash/can shake in Waveland Friday and Saturday, Nov. 27 and 28.

Sea Wolves jersey auction to benefit home for children

It's time for hockey fans to mark their calendars for the night of Nov. 19. That's when Treasure Bay Casino hosts a Sea Wolves jersey auction to benefit a Coast home for abused and neglected children.

Members of the Mississippi Sea Wolves will be there to give the shirts off their backs to the highest bidders while raising proceeds for Hope Haven.

The auction will be held in Scalawag's Showbar on the casino's second floor beginning at 7 p.m.

Hope Haven, in Bay St. Louis, is the only non-profit shelter in Mississippi not affiliated with a larger, supporting organization.

The shelter's present facility can only house up to six children at one time, but there is hope that the auction at Treasure Bay and other fund-raising efforts will change that.

Hope Haven has received a donation of land to build a larger facility and has begun soliciting donations to raise $150,000 for construction costs.

For children who are placed at Hope Haven, a staff of professional and trained volunteers provide them a comfortable bed, nourishing meals and hope for a new beginning.

Anyone wishing information on contribution or volunteer programs may call Director Terry Latham at 228-467-7945.

Roy Clark

'Hee Haw's' legendary Roy Clark plays Casino Magic Bay St. Louis

When country music first crossed over to pop charts, it was Roy Clark who did it. When the longest-running syndicated television series in history was on the air, it was Roy Clark who starred in it.

Now you can see this legendary man and musician at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis tonight in the Magic Entertainment Complex at 7 and 9 for $15, $20 or $25.

"The biggest attribute I have," Clark says, "is that I'm just ole Roy. I remind women of their brothers or sons, and men aren't intimidated by me. I don't play or sing that far over their heads that they can't say, 'If I wanted to practice, I could do that, and besides, look at him, he's no Greek god, that's for sure.'"

For a man whose widely-acclaimed virtuosity on the guitar, homespun humor and down-home business sense have made him a household name, humility is as natural to him as his smile.

"A TV camera goes right through your soul," says the man who starred on "Hee Haw" for 24 years and was a frequent guest host for Johnny Carson on "The Tonight Show."

"If you're a bad person, people pick that up. I'm a firm believer in smiles. I used to believe everything had to be a belly laugh. But I've come to realize that a real sincere smile is mighty powerful."

Clark remains one of the most popular entertainers. For a man who didn't taste major success until he was 30 years old, the key has not been some grand plan, but rather taking everything in its own time.

"Sure, I had dreams of being a star when I was 18. I could've pushed it too, but it wouldn't have happened any sooner. I'm lucky. What's happened, has happened in spite of me."

Police officer benefit at Magic

The Long Beach Police Department is holding a benefit concert Sunday, Nov. 15 for the families of former Long Beach police officers Steven Morgan and Jim Northcutt, who were slain May 6 in the line of duty.

The event will be held at Casino Magic Bay St., Louis in the Magical Entertainment Complex.

Vince Vance and the Valiants are scheduled to perform at 5 and 8 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children. They may be purchased from any local police department and in the Casino Magic Gift Shop.

McCoy to entertain at Gulfport Grand

Grand Casino Gulfport will present Neal McCoy at the Gulfport Grand Showroom 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 20 and Saturday, Nov. 21.

McCoy won the 1998 TNN Music City News Country Awards Entertainer of the Year Award. This fan-voted award is just another testament to his loyal following. He has earned a reputation of one of the most consistent crowd pleasers.

Wherever McCoy performs he funnels his inexhaustible energy into presenting one of country's best live shows. His fan base has grown steadily with the release of each album and hit singles.

In 1994 McCoy had his first number one hit, "No Doubt About It." It was followed by the infectious "Wink," which topped the charts four consecutive weeks. Fans love his unique blend of touching ballads and wild ditties.

One of these ditties, "The Shake," became a Top 5 hit and might easily be considered his signature song.

McCoy has explained he considers... "country as American music... and that means diversity... like me. I am part Filipino and Part Irish, but all Texan."

For ticket information, call the Gulfport Grand Showroom Box Office at 1-800-WIN-7777 ext. 1988. Tickets are $30 each and are also available at all TicketMaster outlets.

In addition to these Natural Resources Conservation Service programs, the USDA Farm Service Agency has a continuous sign-up for the Conservation Reserve Program for certain high priority conservation practices.

These programs are designed to improve areas for wildlife habitat, provide tree planting for reforestation, install conservation practices to reduce erosion and to improve water quality and restore wetland habitats.

Advisory panel to discuss habitat

A panel of concerned representatives of Louisiana/Mississippi recreational and commercial fishing groups, conservation organizations, academia and state and federal resource agencies will gather at the Crowne Plaza Hotel, 333 Poydras, New Orleans to review and discuss fishery habitat issues. The meeting will convene at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 17 and is expected to adjourn at 3 p.m.

The Louisiana/Mississippi group is part of a three-unit Habitat Protection Advisory Panel (AP) of the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council. The principal role of the advisory panels is to assist the Council in attempting to maintain optimum conditions within the habitat and ecosystems supporting the marine resources of the Gulf of Mexico.

Advisory panels serve as a first alert system to call to the Council's attention proposed projects being developed and other activities which may adversely impact the Gulf marine fisheries and their supporting ecosystems.

The panels may also provide advice to the Council on its policies and procedures for addressing environmental affairs.

At this meeting, the AP will tentatively discuss updates on the Caminada Cove project, the navigation canal between the GIWW and the Barataria Bay Waterway, port activity around Port Fourchon, La., the Eden Isles project, the Big Island Restoration Project, and a presentation on the Destination Broadwater Casino project.

A copy of the agenda can be obtained by calling 813-228-2815.

Although other issues not on the agenda may come before the panel for discussion, in accordance with the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act, those issues may not be the subject of formal panel action during this meeting. Panel action will be restricted to those issues specifically identified in the agenda listed as available by this notice.

The meeting is open to the public and is physically accessible to people with disabilities. Requests for sign language interpretation or other auxiliary aids should be directed to the Council office by Nov. 10.

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council is one of eight regional fishery management councils that were established by the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976. The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council prepares fishery management plans that are designed to manage fishery resources in the U.S. Gulf of Mexico.
